4 erty, real or personal, pursuant to a civil forfeiture pro-
5 ceeding, including a nonjudicial civil forfeiture pro-6 ceeding.”.

10 “(a) ARREST OR CHARGE IN A FOREIGN COUNTRY.—

11 “(1) IN GENERAL.—If any person is arrested or 12 charged in a foreign country in connection with an 13 offense that would give rise to the forfeiture of prop-
14 erty in the United States under the Controlled Sub-15 stances Act, the Attorney General may apply to any 16 Federal judge or magistrate judge in the district in 17 which the property is located for an ex parte order 18 restraining the property subject to forfeiture for not 19 more than 30 days, except that the time may be ex-
20 tended for good cause shown at a hearing conducted 21 in the manner provided in rule 43(e) of the Federal 22 Rules of Civil Procedure.

23 “(2) APPLICATION.—The application for the re-
24 straining order shall set forth the nature and cir-25 cumstances of the foreign charges and the basis for 26 belief that the person arrested or charged has prop-

1 erty in the United States that would be subject to 2 forfeiture, and shall contain a statement that the re-
3 straining order is needed to preserve the availability
4 of property for such time as is necessary to receive 5 evidence from the foreign country or elsewhere in 6 support of probable cause for the seizure of the 7 property under this subsection.

8 “(b) TRANSFER.—

9 “(1) IN GENERAL.—Whenever property is

1 A decision by the Attorney General or the Secretary
2 of the Treasury pursuant to this subsection shall not 3 be subject to review. The foreign country shall, in 4 the event of a transfer of property or proceeds of 5 sale of property under this subsection, bear all ex-
6 penses incurred by the United States in the seizure,
7 maintenance, inventory, storage, forfeiture, and dis-
8 position of the property, and all transfer costs. The 9 payment of all such expenses, and the transfer of as-10 sets pursuant to this paragraph, shall be upon such 11 terms and conditions as the Attorney General or the 12 Secretary of the Treasury may, in his discretion, set.

13 “(2) RULE OF CONSTRUCTION.—The provisions
14 of this section shall not be construed as limiting or 15 superseding any other authority of the United States 16 to provide assistance to a foreign country in obtain-17 ing property related to a crime committed in the for-18 eign country, including property which is sought as

20 waive the claimant’s rights under applicable finan-21 cial secrecy laws, or to obtain the records so that

1 TITLE II—STATE FORFEITURE

2 SEC. 201. FINDINGS; SENSE OF CONGRESS.

3 (a) FINDINGS.—Congress finds the following:

4 (1) The Constitution authorizes and obligates
5 each branch of the Federal Government to protect 6 individual rights.

7 (2) Congress is specifically authorized by the 8 Fourteenth Amendment to provide remedies for 9 States' violations of individual rights secured by the 10 Constitution.

11 (3) The Constitution secures the rights of indi-
12 viduals whom the Government seeks to punish for 13 violating its laws.

14 (4) The Government's use of in rem pro-
15 ceedings to forfeit property to punish legal violations 16 without affording property owners the rights of 17 criminal defendants plainly violates their constitu-
18 tionally secured rights.

19 (5) The Government's use of a legal tool at the 20 time of the founding does not preclude its being in-21 compatible with constitutionally secured rights.

22 (6) The long-term failure of Congress, presi-
23 dents, and the judiciary to recognize the illegitimacy
24 of the Government's civil forfeiture practices does 25 not divest them of the authority to do so.

1 (7) The Government cannot lawfully jettison
2 the rights of the accused for the sake of convenience
3 and profit.

4 (8) The early use of civil forfeiture in the 5 United States was limited to admiralty and revenue
6 contexts, in which the existence of a legal violation
7 and the identity of the property used to effect it
8 were often self-evident, and the owner of the prop-
9 erty to be seized was often unobtainable.

10 (9) Although the limitations on early civil for-11 feiture practices do not prevent those practices from 12 being constitutionally infirm, they do materially dis-13 tinguish the early practices from modern civil for-14 feiture.

15 (10) The modern use of civil forfeiture by 16 States is not limited to admiralty or revenue con-17 texts, its reach extends far beyond property used to 18 commit an offense, and it is used often to supple-
19 ment, rather than recover, the Government's reve-
20 nues.

21 (11) Civil forfeiture statutes and precedents in-22 corporate certain protections for property owners
23 that, although limited, erode the nature of the pro-
24 ceedings as truly in rem and betray the punitive
25 character of civil forfeiture.

1 (12) The tortured status of civil forfeiture in 2 current law, in which the fiction of the property as 3 the defendant is sustained, yet the interests of prop-
4 erty owners are, to a limited extent, nonetheless rec-
5 ognized, is the inevitable result of grandfathering
6 civil forfeiture into a constitutional system that oth-
7 erwise secures the rights of the accused.

8 (b) SENSE OF CONGRESS.—It is the sense of Con-
9 gress that the Constitution authorizes and obligates Con-10 gress to prohibit the use of civil asset forfeiture by the 11 States.

12 SEC. 202. STATE CIVIL ASSET FORFEITURE.

13 (a) IN GENERAL.—Property owned by a person may 14 be forfeited to a State pursuant to a civil proceeding only 15 after—

16 (1) criminal conviction of such person for viola-17 tion of State criminal law; or

18 (2) a civil proceeding in which—

19 (A) the State proves that the person who 20 owns the property has committed the offense
21 giving rise to forfeiture; and

22 (B) the person who owns such property is 23 entitled to all rights applicable to criminal de-24 fendants under the Constitution, including the

1 right to be represented by counsel and the right
2 to trial by jury.

3 (b) FEDERAL CAUSE OF ACTION.—A person ag-
4 grieved by a violation of subsection (a) may bring a civil 5 action against the State in the appropriate Federal district 6 court for relief, including return of forfeited property and 7 enforcement of the procedures described in subsection (a).

8 SEC. 203. EFFECTIVE DATE.

9 This Act and the amendments made by this Act shall 10 apply with respect to—

11 (1) forfeiture proceedings occurring on or after 12 the date of enactment of this Act; and 13 (2) forfeiture proceedings pending on or after 14 such date.
